'Koala asked P50M to rig vote'

GOING BY THE STORIES OF losing candidates, a group of "koala bears" must have been roosting the country during the election period offering to fix votes for a fee ranging up to P50 million.

Defeated candidates from Quezon City to Surigao del Norte yesterday testified at a congressional hearing and alleged that men had approached them claiming they could rig the country's first automated polls. (See related story on page 2.)

"I was surprised when he asked me if I was willing to engage his services, including those of his partners, to guarantee the victory of my own side in the province," Surigao del Norte Gov. Ace Barbers told the House of Representatives committee on suffrage and electoral reforms.

"If I subscribe, the victories of myself, my vice governor, congressmen, and all my mayors will be guaranteed. The price—P50 million," Barbers said.

Barbers said he spurned the offer. He and his entire team, including 21 mayors and congressmen, lost.

Quezon City Rep. Martin Dela Cruz, who also came to grief at the polls, said there were some in his house in January who offered to cheat for him. He said he refused and they did not talk about money.

The possibility of Benigno "Noynoy" Aquino III holding office in Manila without a vice president was discussed at the closed-door caucus in the Senate yesterday.

Locsin, chair of a House committee hearing allegations of fraud in the May 10 automated elections, said columnist Buddy Calanan should bring out to the public the masked witness so he could attest to the allegations he made.

Palace, LP wrangle over 'no proclamation' talk

By Christine V. Espinosa, Nikko Dizon and Christine O. Arendano

LIKE A BURNING SCORCHING HERB CHILLER, Malacañan yesterday told Liberal Party allies of prospective president-elect Sen. Benigno "Noynoy" Aquino III to stop floating allegations of a plot to delay the proclamation of the country's new president and vice president.

Deputy presidential spokesperson Gary Olivar said the Liberal Party (LP) should move "behind" as the party of the president-elect (and) should comport themselves accordingly.

"The LP is no longer a party in the wilderness," Olivar said in a briefing. "They should hold themselves to a higher standard of evidence before they make statements, especially if their statements are potentially inflammatory."

The Palace mouthpiece made the remark about an Aquino himself, who returned to the Senate yesterday for the first time since launching his campaign, and there may be "some questions" who wanted to delay the proclamation and fresh allegations that the May 10 balloting had been rigged.

"But I want to ask, to what purpose?" said Aquino, who has posted a wide lead of some 5 million votes over his nearest rival, Joseph Estrada, based on partial unofficial tallies by the Commission on Elections.

Digital signatures built-in, say poll officials

By Lella B. Salaverria and Cathy Yarnosa

ELECTION OFFICIALS YESTERDAY disputed the contention of Mikael Pup, Theodore Locsin that the electronic results of the May 10 polls bore no digital signatures that would attest to their authenticity.

Locsin, chair of the House committee on suffrage and electoral reforms, said on Friday that the election returns, on which the certificates of canvass (COCs) and the proclamation of winners were based, were flawed because they did not contain the digital signatures as defined by the E-Commerce Act of 2009.

The Commission on Elections (Comelec) did not require the Comelec members of the board of election inspectors (BEI) to digitally sign the election returns before electronically transmitting them to the servers and transmitting returns. BEI members are usually public school teachers.

UN child warriors report may affect US aid to RP

By Joseph R. Uy
and Ryan D. Russell
Ottawa, Minnesota

UNITED STATES AND OTHER INTERNATIONAL military aid to the Philippines may be affected by a new United Nations report that estimates the Armed Forces of the Philippines (AFP) together with three rebel groups in the country are recruiting children as soldiers or subjecting them to sexual violence, such as killings, mutilations and sexual slavery.

The 2009 UN report on children and armed conflict also cited the AFN activities for the momentous Mariel Islamic Liberation Front (MILF) use of Davao United Arab Davao and the communist New People's Army for violations of children's rights will be presented to the Security Council next month.

The report urged the Security Council to urge states to improve measures against recruitment of children.

At the same time, the UN Child Survival Programme, the which came into force on June 15, 2009, "prohibits the provision of military training, financing and other defense-related assistance to countries identified as remaining or using child soldiers in government armed forces or government-supported paramilitary organizations or militias."

APP spokespersons T.J. Gledhill and Margie H. Reid were incidentally mentioned in the USF's 2009 report regarding the blood-banking and mislabeling by suppliers of three unexpired HbF RBC concentrates as related to North Carolina last year (see page 10).

Burgard told reporters in an interview at Camp Aguirre that he was sure that these records showed that "the child survivors were arrested in South American camps."

But Sargent stressed that the 207 was not closing its door to any investigation that might be prompted by the CIA report.

Statement of Mayor-elect Nicanor A. Isidro and other duly elected officials of the City of Lipa, Batangas

The Filipino people has bestowed an overwhelming mandate to Senator Noyen Aquino in the recent May 18 elections. In Lipa City alone, Senator Noyen Aquino won 60% of the total votes cast based on COMELEC election results.

We accept and respect the will of the people even though we belong to another party. We also expect our legislators who will handle the crucial increasing of rates of national candidates to do so and restore all institutions to their continuing process in Congress.

Our people truly want change and expect the new President of the Republic to lead the way in providing good governance and solving the problems besetting the country.

Since that time, there is an urgent need to rally people's support for the new administration's reform drive and its social contract with the Filipino people, especially in the first six hundred days of his term.

An aim of the transition growth and investment plan in Southern Tagalog, Upper City is always committed to political stability and progress. We owe it to our people to preserve and expand the gains of good government and sustainable development.

In behalf of the people of Lipa, Inc., the duly elected officials of the City, Institution full confidence and support to the transitional team headed by incoming President Noyen Aquino, and call on the Representatives of Congress to fast track the continuing process if only to ensure that the hard work of addressing the pressing needs of our people will begin as soon as possible.

Apple's solution is to use a "ghost" printer to print the labels. The ghost printer is a low-cost, low-resolution printer that prints the labels at a low resolution. The labels are then scanned by a high-resolution scanner, which produces a high-resolution image of the label. This image is then used to create the final label.

SLEx operator seeks 300% toll hike

By Stanley C. Shostrom, Editor

THE OPERATOR OF THE SOUTH LINES Expressway (SLEET) has asked the government to allow it to raise toll rates by over 200 percent by next month to help the company recover the $1.2 billion it claims it spent to improve the highway.

Marlin Toll Expressways Systems Inc. (MTE), operator of the 20-kilometer toll road from Mérida to Cobolá, Yucatán, has asked the Toll Regulation Board (TRB) for a rate increase of 15.7% per kilometer for private passenger vehicles. This represents a 55-percent increase over the current 92 centavos per kilometer. But consumers must still be able to afford to use the road, says the TRB.

Mattis said the bill was never intended to take effect on June 15. But the company, until yesterday, had received no approval from the DHS to manufacture the pills.

"We received a letter from the TEB saying that the board had asked 'favorable or not' on our application," Thales spokesman Jean Tignier said in an interview. "The ruling is official yet... We are still waiting for their final approval because without that we can't do anything."

The Lewy Riders don't all agree on how to make any changes in their five-week lecture assignments set to take effect. This makes the June 18 date impossible to meet, according to Moore.

The group took over the state's toll roads much after completing most of the public works the road needed. At present, revenue from highway operations amount to as much as $2 billion a year.

The group has argued that the extra 1.1 percent in value added tax (VAT) that the travellers will have to pay will be a big factor on the morning public. The highest fares may also cause a drop in the number of cars passing through toll roads.

CHARLIE HOGG

The easy yogi

Australian meditation teacher Charlie Hogg to discuss 'A Future Without Fear'

By Francis C. Valdez
 Executive Editor

MEDITATION STUDENTS in over 90 countries consider Charlie Hogg, Australian teacher of an ancient method, a prime example of an "easy yogi."

Hogg, 54, is the director of 27 Aranya Buddhist Vajra Yoga centers across Australia and the spokesman of a major development fund in Melbourne, the $4 Spiritual University headquarters in Rajasthan, India. But to some 170,000 practitioners, one-third of them from outside the sub-continent, he is simply "Charlie-hog" (Hindi: the "Buddha Charlie"), known for insightful classes that push the largest halls on the main campus... and for his calmness, cracking, laughter.

A laughing guru, if there ever was one, when asked, Charlie-hog's goal in life, "This one and down the line through my next 60 births," has always been "happiness—the ultimate state of a wise soul."

In fact, Hogg says, meditation is not some mystic or esoteric concept or practice. "It is, simply, remembering the source of all that is perfect in me." It never does anyone good to overthink things, he adds. "One should always be looking to be free of burden. Over-analyzing is taking on more baggage and increasing one's karmic account."

Hogg yogi for 34 years

Hogg has been a yoga yogi for 34 years (he was one of the first five designers to leave the discipline) and has taught the principles for nearly as long. He was quite the long-haired, full-bodied yogi in his younger days. He likes to exercise, but now he is much more moderate. How much his life was really worth.

At 54, he moved to London to be a Buddhist teacher. He has since traveled widely, "teaching, but learning even more each

The voice has certainly attained a certain maturity, which Charice has attributed to extensive guidance from producers David Foster, who also picked a repertoire that suits her.

Equally important, Foster assembled a team of European songwriters and producers to make sure that he was up to a level that everyone, especially the mass market, could relate to.

The result is a beautiful collection of pop-ballad tunes, some at par with several hits churned out by the likes of Beyoncé, Mariah Carey and Adele.

Surprisingly, Charice calls down the vocals with an intimate, tender, and at a couple of tracks, "I Think I'm" and a cover of "You're So Good," she sings with her signature "sassy" tone.
